In 1983, Technical Services Associates Inc. (TSA), a small software development company specializing in procurement, set the stage by changing how procurement processes could be made more efficient by introducing automation of core procurement functions on a personal computer. Even though TSA was small in size, our innovative ideas, creativity, and domain expertise allowed us to lay the foundation for e-Procurement.

Today TSA, or better known as Puridiom, named after our innovative e-Procurement software suite, continues to deliver compelling results and ignite the transformation of the procurement operation into a "Strategic Resource Savings Solution".

Over the past two decades, Procurement has shifted from a tactical service to a more strategic function. Because of this, it is important that your company partner with a solution provider that offers a unique blend of dynamic personalized services, innovative technology, and domain experience. Puridiom is that strategic partner.

Unparalleled Services.

Puridiom offers a wide array of complementary services to help organizations achieve the strategic objectives and accelerate bottom-line results. We provide personalized services to acquire an in-depth knowledge of your business allowing Puridiom to become an extension of your organization. This enables you to maximize the benefits and have a strategic focus on the goals and objectives that are important to your company.

Innovation.

Puridiom is a leading provider of cutting edge Procure-to-Pay Spend Management solutions. Our first product, PC Procurement, was one of the first applications designed for a PC-based environment addressing many procurement inefficiencies; a huge innovation that revolutionized the way businesses manage their spend today. By using our innovative technology, Puridiom enables organizations to improve their overall performance and continually meet the evolving challenges they face in the areas of procurement, sourcing, payables, and fulfillment. This provides the company with the competitive advantage they need to survive.

Experience.

Puridiom was born out of the expertise of our own business analysts and developers, by working closely with procurement specialists, buyers and other key users in a variety of markets. Our diverse market presence has given us the unique perspective and ability to provide the best strategies, easy-to-use and intuitive tools, and on-demand services to each and every business, no matter what the challenge or requirement. Over the past 24 years, we have listened to our clients and forecasted market trends letting Puridiom stay at the forefront of innovation and be your trusted partner.
